

ADVOCATE GIRLS START ON TRIP TO EASTERN CITIES MONDAY NIGHT

Coshocton Party Arrives in Time for Dinner With Newark Girls at Sherwood Hotel

DELIGHTFUL OUTING HAS BEEN PLANNED

Principal Points of Interest in Many Cities Will be Visited—Trip by Rail and Water With Best of Accommodations—Outline of the Ten Day Itinerary.

Tonight at 8:20 o'clock, fourteen young women as guests of the Advocate will start upon a delightful trip to the East—a trip that will include a visit to Washington, Mt. Vernon, Richmond, Va., Norfolk, Old Point Comfort, Yorktown, Newport News, Baltimore, New York, Pittsburg and other points.

The party is made up of the 10 winners of the Advocate popularity contest, together with special guests invited by this newspaper and is accompanied by five young ladies who go as guests of the Coshocton Age. The Advocate has secured the personal services of Mr. Clark C. Doughty, general manager of the Ohio Excursion Bureau of the Columbus, who recently conducted the Columbus Dispatch girls over much of the same route, only the Advocate-Age party will make a more extensive trip. Mr. Doughty is familiar with every foot of the route and is qualified in every way to conduct the party. The official chaperon on the trip is Mrs. H. R. Emery of the Granville road, who was chosen by her daughter, Miss Estella Emery, who received the largest vote in the recent contest. One of the publishers of the Advocate also accompanies the party.

The trip, which starts Monday evening, includes first a stop at Washington where all of the many interesting sights of the National capital will be seen; a visit to the tomb of Washington; a trip by steamer from Washington to the capital of the Confederacy; a ride down the James river to the Exposition ground, and numerous side trips by auto, trolley and boat to all of the points of interest around Old Point Comfort; a plunge in the Atlantic Ocean at Virginia Beach; a visit to one of the great battlefields; a visit to all the sights worth seeing on the Exposition grounds, to Jamestown Island and Yorktown, where the British commander surrendered to the American forces.

On August 13th party will separate at Norfolk, part going by ocean steamer to New York, the others by boat to Baltimore. The cities of New York, Baltimore and Pittsburg will be visited. In the metropolis the New York party will have a sight seeing tour in automobiles, will visit Coney Island and have a trip up the Hudson. A day will be given to sight seeing in Baltimore and a short stop will be made at Pittsburg.

The Advocate contest was inaugurated April 19, and closed June 27, 1907. The total number of contestants was 30, of which number 29 remained in the race to the end. The total number of votes cast was 1,792,330, and the total number of new paid in advance subscriptions to the Advocate for six months or longer, was 1422.

The Advocate promised trips to Washington and the Jamestown Exposition to ten young women and to the one receiving the highest vote, an extra trip to New York. This one candidate was allowed to name the chaperon. The Advocate increased the number in the party to 14 and added to the trip by taking in Mt. Vernon, Richmond, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Old Point Comfort and other points.

The party will consist of the Misses Estella Emery, Granville road, Newark; Clara E. Bucy, 20 South Arch street, Newark; Anna Stare, 26 North Fifth street, Newark; Maude Botts, 189 West Main street, Newark; Mame Bentz, 65 Seventh street, Newark; Alice L. CRUEL MURDER OF LITTLE GIRL LAID TO WOMAN'S PLOT

KATIE TEITCHLER

New York, Aug. 5.—Another shocking outrage, more revolting than any other of the recent crimes of murder and mutilation, was discovered with the finding of the body of eight year old Catherine Teitchler in a cellar at No. 203 first avenue.

Two Italians were arrested, and what lends a new aspect of horror to the crime is the fact that the police and relatives of the child believe that a woman's desire for revenge had a part in it. She is still in hiding, but detectives expect to arrest her within a few hours. The men in custody are Gaetano Ripalano, 32 years old, and Giuseppe Bonfanti, 32 shoemakers, with a small shop at No. 349 East Thirteenth street. Ripalano was locked up and Bonfanti was held on suspicion.

CELLAR WHERE KATIE TEITCHLER WAS FOUND.

"Katie" Teitchler, who was known as "Little Pinchore" by her companions, because of the pretty pink apions she always wore, was kidnapped or disappeared from her home a week ago last Thursday.

DAYTON IS SLOTTED BY A WFUL CRIME

TWO GIRLS ASSAULTED AND ONE WAS STRANGLED TO DEATH.

THE ESCORT FATALLY SHOT

Crime Near the Soldiers' Home—Believed to be the Work of a Degenerate.

Dayton, Aug. 5.—Miss Anna Markowitz was strangled and brutally assaulted by an unknown assailant last night and died soon after. Abe Cohen, a traveling salesman, lies at the hospital with a bullet wound in his stomach that will probably prove fatal. The crime occurred late last night near the Soldiers' Home. Several tragedies have been enacted near the same place within recent months and are believed to be the work of a degenerate. Cohen was wounded in defending his companions, Anna and Bertha Markowitz, daughters of a pawnbroker. After he had been beaten down and shot, Anna was dragged away, assaulted and strangled to death. Her sister Bertha fled and gave the alarm.

The wounded man gave the name of Gordon, but it has been ascertained his correct name is Abe Cohen. He has been boarding at the Richards' street house for a week, where it is said he came from Indianapolis. Cohen is about 21. In a semi-delirium he describes his assailant as about 24 years old, tall, smooth faced and wearing dark clothes.

The Markowitz family formerly lived in Cincinnati. Two brothers of the dead girl were taken to the sheriff's office this morning and questioned, it having been reported that they followed Cohen and their sister last night. Coroner Snyder expressed conviction that the man had no connection with the crime.

The coroner, who heard of the assault, stationed a man at the spot to prevent the coupling of footprints that may furnish a clue, but the heavy rains have obliterated these to some extent.

LATER THEORIES OF MURDER.

Dayton, Aug. 5.—Later police theories as to the murder are changed, Jacob, James and Bertha Markowitz, sons brothers and sisters of the murdered girl, were placed in different apartments in the county jail under orders from Coroner Schuster, who will examine them more closely today. The brothers and sister reported the crime to the police last night, which the coroner says tends to bear out the report that they were following Cohen and their sister Anna. Investigation is being made of the whereabouts last night of Dave Curtis, once charged with the murder of Dona Gilman, but later released.

CANADA HOISTS THE BRITISH FLAG OVER ISLE ROYAL

THE HASTY AND SECRET ACTION MAY CAUSE VERY SERIOUS TROUBLE.

NEVER HAS BEEN A DOUBT

That the United States Owned This Island in Lake Superior—Think It is a Filibuster.

Port Arthur, Ont., Aug. 5.—Captain S. C. Young returned from Isle Royale in Lake Superior, where he was successful in planting the British flag, meeting with no opposition from any quarter. When asked why he had made his expedition he said it was for the purpose of opening correspondence between Ottawa and Washington, which would show that great injustice had been done to Canada by the agreement which gave Isle Royale to the United States. Captain Young claims that Isle Royale rightly belongs to Canada. The action of Young was not known to the Canadian government until it was officially notified that the island had been seized in the name of Great Britain.

Washington, Aug. 5.—No advice has been received at the state department concerning the reported expedition of several Canadians, led by Captain S. C. Young of the Ninety sixth regiment, for Isle Royale, in Lake Superior, with the intention of hoisting the British flag on the island and formal dedication of the territory as part of Canada. According to officials of the state department there has never been any question between Canada and the United States as to the United States' ownership of the island. Its ownership was settled by the treaty of Ghent. At the same time it is a filibuster.

St. Paul, Aug. 5.—The funeral of Augustus St. Paul, the sculptor, who died at his home here last night, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the sculptor's home. The services will be attended only by relatives and close friends. In accordance with the wishes of the sculptor, the body will be cremated.

SPECIAL DEMANDS ON THE STANDARD TO THE PRESIDENT

BY COMMISSIONER OF CORPORATIONS AND COMPANY IS CRITICISED.

FOR THE PAST TEN YEARS

It Says the Standard Has Been Boosting the Price of Oil—Increased Dividends.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Following close on the heels of Judge Landis' crushing decision imposing a fine of $29,240,000 against it on account of rebates granted the Chicago & Alton railway in Indiana territory, comes a severe arraignment of the Standard Oil company from Commissioner of Corporations Smith, in a special report just submitted to President Roosevelt.

In a previous report the means and methods of the Standard were explained. The present report sets forth the results of these methods and the effect they have had on the consumer of oil and on the profits of the Standard Oil company. It deals with the standards and prices, showing just how the manipulation of the oil industry by the Standard has affected the American people.

Commissioner Smith says: "The Standard Oil company is responsible for the course of prices of petroleum and its products during the last 25 years. The Standard has consistently used its power to raise the price of oil during the last 10 years, not only absolutely, but also relatively to the cost of crude oil.

"The Standard has claimed that it has reduced the price of oil; that it has been a benefit to the consumer; and that only a great combination like the Standard could have prevailed off at the prices that have furnished it.

"Each one of these claims," says Commissioner Smith, "is disproved by this report." The increase in annual profits of the Standard from 1896 to 1904 was over $27,000,000. The report says:

"The total dividends paid by the Standard from 1882 to 1906 were $551,922,904, averaging thus 24.15 per cent per year. The dividends, however, were much less than the total earnings. It is substantially certain that the entire net earnings of the Standard from 1882 to 1906 were at least $790,000,000, and possibly much more. These enormous profits have been based on an investment worth at the time of its original acquisition not more than $75,000,000."

In his letter to President Roosevelt transmitting the report, Commissioner Smith says:

"The following facts are proven: The Standard has not reduced its margins during the period in which it has been responsible for the prices of oil. During the last eight years covered by this report (1898 to 1906) it has raised both prices and margins. Its domination has not been acquired or maintained by its superior efficiency, but rather by unfair competition and by methods economically and morally unjustifiable. The Standard has superior efficiency in running its own business; it has an equal efficiency in destroying the business of competitors. It keeps for itself the profits of the first and adds to these the monopoly profits secured by the second. Its profits are far above the highest possible standard of a reasonable commercial return, and have been steadily increasing. Finally, the history of this great industry is a history of the persistent use of the worst industrial methods, the exaction of exorbitant prices from the consumer, and the securing of excessive profits for the small group of men who, over a long series of years, have thus dominated the business."

In a few days another section of the report will be made public, setting forth the importance of price discrimination in restraining the business of competitors and augmenting the profits of the Standard.

THE STANDARD OIL COMPANY DECLINES TO MAKE STATEMENT

Laughs at Corporation Commissioner's Report and Says Little Smith Earned Salary.

New York, Aug. 5.—No official statement is given out by the Standard Oil company here today. When questioned about the report just published by Herbert Knox Smith, Commissioner of Corporations, G. K. Clark, of the Standard, laughed and said: "Good little Smith, he has earned his salary at any rate." Then in a more serious vein said: "You cannot expect us to answer or even comment on a (Continued on page 8, 3th col.)"

State Rights Struggle

WHAT THE RAILROAD RATE WAR BEGUN IN NORTH CAROLINA MEANS.

Details of the Incident That Started a National Problem of Vital Importance—Right of Each State to Regulate Passenger Rates in its Own Territory is the Question Now Uppermost in Public Discussion—Effect of the Two Cent Rate Law Where Tested.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

THE civil war began in South Carolina. Now another state rights struggle has begun in North Carolina. Between the two conflicts forty-six years have elapsed. To alter slightly what the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina, it's a long time between wars; also there is a great gulf of difference between wars in their causes, their methods of conduct and their results. The present conflict is altogether political—a matter of civil jurisdiction—while the other was both political and physical. No blood will be shed in this war unless it be such as may be shed by railroad passengers in snappings along the line. Furthermore, the struggle is not sectional. It is going on in practically every state. North Carolina simply has the distinction of being the first state to "defy" the national government in the state's demand that it be permitted to regulate railroad passenger rates within its own territory. One supreme question was settled by the civil war. The question was, is the United States a nation, or is it a mere bunch of states loosely tied together by a string of red tape? The decision was that the United States is singular, not plural. By force of arms the constitution was interpreted to mean that one state cannot secede from the rest of the nation. The string is binding. That fact is definitely set-maximum to be charged by the railroads. In one or more states 2 1/2 cents is named, while North Carolina splits the difference.

Laws reducing the passenger rate have been adopted this year by North Carolina, Virginia, Illinois, Kansas, Indiana, Ohio, South Dakota, North Dakota, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Mississippi—sixteen states. New York also passed a two cent bill which Governor Hughes vetoed. Several other states have shown very definite leanings toward such laws, and in one or two of these the veto message of Governor Hughes is said to have influenced the legislators against voting for reduction bills.

Thus it is seen that the movement is general. Pennsylvania cannot say to Nebraska, "You are populist," for the old Keystone State has joined the state of Bryan in reducing the rate. Republican as well as Democratic states have passed two cent laws. It is not, therefore, a partisan issue in any sense; it is purely a popular issue. There can be no doubt that with the great mass of the people these two cent laws fill a long felt want.

Irresistible Demand to Cut Rates
There has been an impression for many years throughout the country that passenger rates are too high. People have read about fat dividends declared on railroad stocks, they have

LAJOIE HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM INJURY

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—Manager Napoleon Lajoie, of the Cleveland club, narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday evening at the hands of George Stovall, first baseman of the team. Stovall tried to brain Lajoie with a heavy oaken chair in the reading room of the Aldine hotel, where the Cleveland club is stopping. Stovall has been indefinitely suspended and was sent home to Cleveland Sunday night. Lajoie, although he has a lame shoulder, will play first base for the Clevelandists today.

After supper Saturday Stovall was informed that an outsider had roamed him severely in the hotel dining room in the presence of Lajoie, and that the manager had not resented the critic's remarks. When Lajoie and Stovall met the latter informed his manager of what he had heard. An argument was started, which resulted in Lajoie inflicting a $50 fine on the player. This further incensed Stovall, and he abused Lajoie, using filthy language. Thereupon the manager raised the fine to $100. This enraged Stovall so that he grabbed a chair and aimed a blow at Lajoie's head. Lajoie sidestepped and the chair, striking the floor, was broken into a dozen pieces.

Several of the Chicago players interfered at this point and dragged Stovall from the room.

The suspension followed. The row is said to be the result of considerable ill feeling that has existed in the ranks of the Cleveland club since the beginning of the season.

Saturday Frank Delehanty was suspended by Cleveland. The former New York player is charged with interfering with playing and laxity in training methods.

YOUNGSTOWN HAS A COSTLY BUNCH OF PLAYERS

There are several teams in the O. and P. league, states a dispatch from Pittsburgh, that are reported to be far exceeding the salary limit. Youngstown being the costliest team in the circuit. Marty Hogan, now manager of the Zanesville P. O. M. club, signed the nucleus of the Youngstown team, and he got nothing but the best. The writer has it direct from ex-Manager Hogan that at least five players on the team are receiving at least $300 per month, including Captain Charley Starr, Catcher Harry Ostieck, Outfielders Will Thomas and "Curley" Blount and First Baseman-Outfielder Jack McAleese. And lately Bill Bannon left the umpire staff of the O. and P. league because there was not enough money in the job, and the arbitrators are not meanly paid in that league by any means. Bannon is also credited with being within the $300 "charmed circle," as is also Frank Jude, secured from Columbus last week. Akron is another team that is costing the owners no small sum each month, a number of high-class men being included in the line-up. Newark, New Castle and several other owners are spending tidy amounts, but Newark, Youngstown and Akron seem to have the pennant tied up among them.

Quite a Jumble.

What the end will be no man can foresee. The national congress and various state legislatures have taken turns at railroad regulation during the past two or three years, and the conglomerate result marks distinctly a new epoch in the history of common carriers. Freight rates, passenger rates, reciprocal demurrages and what not have agitated the legislative and the lay mind until the jumble is such that our familiar old friend, a Philadelphia lawyer, cannot untangle it.

The passenger rate laws form only one group in the maze of railroad legislation. There are other sorts of statutes with regard to railroads which are calculated to cause both railroaders and rank outsiders to pause and inquire, Whither are we drifting? or, in the language of Mr. Harriman, Where do I stand?

Kansas, for instance, has passed a law providing that a freight conductor or other official may be sent to jail for thirty days for refusing to carry passengers in a freight train caboose. It is well known to the traveling public that most railroads have rigid rules against this practice. Freight trains are intended for hogs, dried apples and California prunes. Passenger trains are intended for passengers. Kansas still lacks a law requiring the passenger conductor to carry hogs, excepting the seat hog, which finds place in every coach.

Blow at a Famous Bridge.

In Missouri a law has been put on the statute books which makes it possible to send a ticket agent to the county jail for six months if he sells a ticket charging a higher rate across a bridge than the rate through the open country. This no doubt is a blow at the famous Eads bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis, which for many years has wrenched 25 cents from the unwilling and protesting pocket of every person who has ridden across it in a railroad coach, though if one prefers to get out and foot it he can walk across for a nickel.

But to the mighty commonwealth of Texas is reserved the crowning glory, the ultimate flower of railroad legislation. The statute meant here is really not aimed against the railroads. It is not one of the "laws with teeth" against which some members of the corporation press gnash and foam. In fact, it is a law even without lips, for it prohibits the drinking of liquor in any railroad train that runs on Texas soil. Only by an absolute reversal of etymology can this new Texas statute be called railroad baiting.

This whole railroad problem is a thing to be worked out by careful and no doubt tedious labor. In time it will be adjusted to the demands of justice and equity. Whether the ultimate outcome will be government ownership or uniform federal supervision—or something else labeled "just as good," which the sociologists of tomorrow may settle upon as the best possible solution—is not to be determined just now. It is enough to say that the matter is of vital present importance, something new under the sun, having had its start as a national problem within the memory of infants now living.

Blow at a Famous Bridge.

In Missouri a law has been put on the statute books which makes it possible to send a ticket agent to the county jail for six months if he sells a ticket charging a higher rate across a bridge than the rate through the open country. This no doubt is a blow at the famous Eads bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis, which for many years has wrenched 25 cents from the unwilling and protesting pocket of every person who has ridden across it in a railroad coach, though if one prefers to get out and foot it he can walk across for a nickel.

But to the mighty commonwealth of Texas is reserved the crowning glory, the ultimate flower of railroad legislation. The statute meant here is really not aimed against the railroads. It is not one of the "laws with teeth" against which some members of the corporation press gnash and foam. In fact, it is a law even without lips, for it prohibits the drinking of liquor in any railroad train that runs on Texas soil. Only by an absolute reversal of etymology can this new Texas statute be called railroad baiting.

This whole railroad problem is a thing to be worked out by careful and no doubt tedious labor. In time it will be adjusted to the demands of justice and equity. Whether the ultimate outcome will be government ownership or uniform federal supervision—or something else labeled "just as good," which the sociologists of tomorrow may settle upon as the best possible solution—is not to be determined just now. It is enough to say that the matter is of vital present importance, something new under the sun, having had its start as a national problem within the memory of infants now living.

GETS FREE LOT

Roy Van Voorhis of N. Williams street, was presented with a deed for a lot in the Glenwood addition on Saturday by General Manager Black. Roy was the fortunate person to find the ticket which was dropped from the balloon a week ago Saturday and which called for a lot. He is certainly to be congratulated on his good fortune.

IT IS PROPOSED TO MAKE GLASS BURIAL CASKETS HERE

At the room of the Newark Real Estate and Improvement Co. there is a unique device on exhibition in the line of a burial casket. It is made entirely of glass and can be lined and trimmed the same as any ordinary casket. The inventor points out that it is impervious to the elements and is everlasting. A partial vacuum is maintained preventing the oxygen from starting decay, and it is so sealed that there is no exposure during funerals from contagious diseases that persons may have died from.

Some of our local glass men have looked at the device and pronounce it to be practical but will look into the proposition more closely with an idea of manufacturing it here.

BIG EXCURSION BUSINESS ON B. & O.

The B. and O. railroad enjoyed a phenomenal excursion business Sunday. The Columbus, Newark and Parkersburg excursion, with Conductor Wm. Saway, had 250 people out of Newark. The Chicago Junction, Newark and Columbus excursion, Conductor John Miller, carried 300 excursionists, one-half of whom stopped off at Newark, taking advantage of the rates and the attractions offered by the Newark-Brooklyn ball game and the other Sunday attractions for which Newark is famous. The Shawnee, Newark and Columbus train, A. I. Woodard in charge, had 350 people aboard when it arrived here, and 256 stayed over to take in the attractions.

This shows what a great town Newark is growing to be, and it is to the interest of every one in business to support anything in the amusement feature that is offered. Every penny that is put in circulation does some one good, and there is no doubt that in the absence of an attraction here on the Fourth of July, many dollars that would have stayed here went out of the city.

Self Interested Generosity.
Edwin and Lisa, says the New York Press, are two little cousins of three who are almost inseparable and divide most of their goodies. One day Edwin had a whole cracker unbuttered and half a one which was buttered. He gave the former to Lisa, and his mother commended him for giving away the larger piece.

Little Lisa looked up aggrievedly. "Yes," said she, "he gave me the biggest, but he kept the butterest."

Too Deep For Him.
"Strange case, that of Mr. and Mrs. Harkins."

"How so? Divorces are common. I don't see anything so remarkable in the fact that they have separated."

"Oh, it isn't the separation. But here it is nearly two weeks since the decree was granted, and neither of them has got married again. I can't understand what the motive was."—Cleveland Leader.

The Way He Loved Her.
Three months after facing the parson together they were seated at the tea table.

"Do you love me still?" queried the young wife after the manner of her kind.

"Of course I love you still," he answered. "Now, keep quiet while I read the paper."—Leslie's Weekly.

What More Could She Ask?
"You used," she complained, "to treat me so affectionately and to use so many words of endearment when you spoke to me. Now you are so matter of fact."

"Well," he replied, with a yawn, "didn't I prove by marrying you that I liked you?"—Judge.

Silly Question.
"But," asked Miss Prim, "didn't you scream when he kissed you?"

"Nonsense! Of course not," replied Miss Koy. "His mustache didn't tickle as much as all that."—Philadelphia Press.

DID SHOT HIT HIM?

G. W. Keller of Newark, proprietor of a steam merry-go-round, now located at Byesville, reported to Mayor Bonom of that place that some one attempted to enter his tent. Mr. Keller said that at about 9:30 o'clock after he had closed down for the night, he heard a noise at the side of the tent and on lifting up the flap was surprised to see a man backing away from his tent. He asked what was wanted and on reply fired four shots at the man, who by this time was running away. Mr. Keller thought that he hit the man with one of the shots.—Cambridge Jeffersonian.

JUDGE J. C. PRITCHARD AND GOVERNOR R. B. GLENN, PRINCIPALS IN NORTH CAROLINA'S RAILROAD RATE CONTROVERSY.

ted. But there are certain phases of the problem of state rights which are not settled. The phase now first and uppermost in public discussion relates to the rights of the states to regulate railroad passenger rates.

Not Pleasant Medicine.

Two ticket agents for the Southern railway were arrested and tried in the police court at Asheville, N. C., on charges of violating the new state law by selling passenger tickets at a rate exceeding the two and one-fourth cents a mile which the statute fixed as the maximum. The men were sentenced to serve thirty days on the chain gang. Both are reputable citizens, one of them an alderman. Thus the operation of the new law was about to begin with a vengeance. As employees of a railroad corporation these men must either obey orders and break the law or they must quit their positions. If they obey orders and the law is enforced, they must take their medicine with the chain gang, which is not pleasant medicine to take.

The United States circuit court intervenes and sets the prisoners free. Judge Jeter C. Pritchard handing down an opinion that the state law is in conflict with federal law. Governor R. B. Glenn of North Carolina arises in his official wrath and "defies" the federal decision. The combat deepens. Men rush to glory—or the chain gang. What has happened in North Carolina may happen in any of the other states which have passed laws reducing the passenger rate. Accordingly these states, and for that matter, all the others, are watching with interest the outcome of the North Carolina affair.

Two cent laws have been passed so rapidly that it is a difficult matter to keep track of them. Nearly all of the new rate reduction laws name 2 cents, a mile per passenger as the watched the growth of vast fortunes built up by railroad magnates, and they have reached the conclusion that these railroad kings are growing too rich at the expense of the people who travel. Consequently the demand upon legislators to cut the rate has been irresistible. Some of the legislators have voted for the reduction because they believe it just and equitable. Others have voted that way on account of pressure from their constituents. Some of the railroad people aver that the laws have been made in a spirit of revenge—whatever that is. The fact remains that every mother's son of us wants to travel as cheaply as may be and that perhaps the majority of us believe that the railroads could carry us at 2 cents a mile and make money on the transaction.

May Be Unprofitable.

But, though this may be true in the case of long hauls, which on many routes for years past have averaged little or nothing above 2 cents a mile, there are various short haul localities where a uniform blanket rate of 2 cents a mile may be unprofitable to the railroads. Governor Hughes pointed this out in his veto message, and railroad managers insist upon its truth. The massing of population also has much to do with the matter. Upon this phase of the problem the managing editor of the Railroad Gazette writes:

"Of the states named (as having passed two cent laws) Ohio and Indiana have fairly dense passenger traffic, and Pennsylvania and Illinois have dense traffic in some directions. The Dakotas, Arkansas and Nebraska have extremely light passenger traffic, and the railroads will certainly lose money on their passenger business under the new laws."

NEWARK OFFICIALS ARE ARRESTED
AT MT. VERNON

GANG OF MEN TAKE AN EARLY
START TO TEAR UP RAIL-WAY TRACKS.

Fire Bell Sounds Alarm and Adds to the Excitement—Stopped by an Injunction.

Mt. Vernon, Aug. 5.—Great excitement prevails here today over a clash between B. & O. officials of Newark, and the street railway people of this city. It has culminated in the arrest of Division Superintendent J. F. Irwin, Division Engineer Charles Dick and Police Detective Roberts, all B. & O.
officials, who reside in Newark.
The trouble arose over the fact that the street railway people claim
they could not reach an agreement with the railroad company about crossing the latter's tracks on High street. The former company has been trying to arrange for an extension of their tracks for some time and Sunday evening the superintendent issued orders to every man working with the construction gang to report
at daylight at the crossing.

Arrangements were made to have a steam whistle sounded as a signal to report. When its shrill blasts were heard upon the morning air, sleepdenizens poking their heads out wondered saw shadowy forms gathering at the crossing. When noses had been counted it was found that about 100 had assembled and were ready for work. Three crossings had to be laid as there are also two side tracks
across High street.

The B. & O. railway's local agent,
J. C. Patterson, soon appeared upon the scene and requested the contractor to desist and his request receiving no attention he telegraphed to headquarters at Newark.

Messrs. Irwin, Dick and Roberts arrived on fast line No. 7, and immediately proceeded to the crossing. Superintendent Irwin assumed charge of the railway forces, while the street railway men were under the charge of A. E. Merkle, assisted by Chief Engineer G. C. Fuller and General Manager C. C. Jacobs of the Electric Railway and Light company.

The men had torn up the rails on the siding on the west of the main track and were putting in the cross-crossing when No. 7 pulled in. As soon as it pulled out Irwin ordered an empty box car to be run over the crossing so as to stop the work. He was immediately arrested by Officers Hough and Alford and hustled off to the office of Mayor Wm. H. Clarke where he was joined within a few minutes by Mr. Dick, who had also been arrested, charged with assault and battery by Contractor Jacobs.

Officer Roberts did not escape and he was taken by Constable Jackson and had his hearing before Squire Harter. At the preliminary hearing the three gentlemen pleaded not guilty and their trials were set for Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. They were released from custody by giving bail in the sum of $100.

Shortly after the hearing a fire alarm was sounded and the department was called to fight a fire near the scene of the trouble. They had to lay several strings of hose across the tracks and while the fire ladders
were busy the street railway men were busier and succeeded in getting in one crossing. They were stopped shortly afterwards by temporary injunction issued by Probate Judge
Berry, it having been applied for by
Berry, it having been applied for by Wright and Moore, attorneys for the railway.

The outcome of this trouble cannot be determined until Judge Berry has the hearing which has been set for tomorrow.

DISCOVERY OF
ANCIENT BURIED
WALL IN TEXAS

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 5.—Discovery of a buried wall in Rockwell county, 10
to 12 miles long and 40 feet high,
has aroused interest among archae-

ruins of a buried city have been discovered. The wall runs northeast and southwest. Excavation is now being conducted by state authorities.
M. Lamoreaux of the Anthropological society, declares the wall is older than discoveries in Egypt. Slabs are unearthed of uniform size, symmetrical in shape and resemble the cement bricks of ancient Egypt.

NOVEL FEATURE

For Coming Fair Being Arranged
For By Board of Directors of Agricultural Society.

The board of directors of the Licking County Agricultural society are arranging for an attractive feature at the fair.

It is something not hitherto attempted and when perfected will be made public. The feature will be announced for Children's day, which this year will occur on Thursday of the week of the fair. They are doing this to add all the pleasant touches possible to that day of the fair.

Last year it will be remembered that thousands of children of the county saw the fair under the most disagreeable circumstances. The day opened beautifully and they flocked there in countless numbers, only to be caught in a drenching rain storm.
They hope for better weather this year and have decided to make it as pleasant as possible for the little folks.

Why Do You

place a sign before your place of business? Because you want your friends to know you are in business. If you did not do so, it would take years for them to find out where you were or what you were doing. How do you expect your friends to know you have a house, lot, horse, buggy, or any other article for sale unless you put up your sign. THE VERY BEST place to put that sign is in THE ADVOCATE WANT COLUMNS. Because they reach the people today, tomorrow, all the time. Because, the cost is so little—only 25 cents for 18 words 3 days.

A NAVAL BASE IS DISCOVERED ON PANAMA COAST

Washington, Aug. 5.—The navy department is completing a work which may have an important bearing on the general plan of defense of the projected Panama canal. The final chart work incident to the survey of Almirante bay, off the coast of Panama, is being made ready for the hydrographic office. Admiral Crowninshield, when chief of the navigation bureau 10 years ago, first realized the possibilities of Almirante bay as a naval rendezvous and coaling station. He went as far as he could in the absence of congressional appropriations, to avail of this sheet of water by using it for drill purposes, and projected a considerable
training station to be located there.
Even now the bay is used to some extent by naval vessels as a coaling ground, and while it has no dock or machinery, the fine shelter afforded makes it easy for a warship to replenish her coal from collieries directly alongside. In fact, this was done by the naval vessels which took the president to the isthmus last year. The fact that Guantanamo is not far distant from Almirante bay and has already been considerably developed as a naval station, has operated to divert attention for the time being from the bay, but its superior advantages in the way of deep water and a good entrance and plenty of room for maneuvers, besides its nearness to Colon, where vessels must call, but where for many years they could not hope to do more than lie in the open roadstead, has revived interest in development of Almirante bay as a naval station of the second class, and the surveys just completed will afford ample material
for the consideration of this subject in congress.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 5.—That there has been a reconciliation between Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and her mother, Mrs. Charles J. Holman, as a result of a recent meeting between mother

close friends of the Thaw family. Evelyn Thaw is said to have been here
within the past 36 hours.
Mr. Holman is very evasive. "Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is not here now and I do not know where she is at the present moment," he said. He would not deny that Evelyn Thaw had been here recently.
There is reason to believe that Martin W. Littleton, Harry Thaw's new counsel, demands that there shall be absolute harmony between the Thaws
and Holmans before Harry Thaw
again faces trial for his life.

FR. O'BOYLAN WRITES SERMON ON TEMPERANCE

V. Rev. B. M. O'Boylan of St. Francis de Sales church, prepared for Sunday morning a strong sermon on Temperance. The text follows:

When our Lord preached He did not compromise the truth or try to please the people. He preached to correct error and lead people into the way of virtue. His church continues to do the same, and all who sincerely desire to save their souls, humbly receive his divine instructions.

Now, it seems, that some people want to be preached to as if they were Pharaohs, "who consider themselves just," and will not brook any correction. To any such who may be in this church I wish to say a few words on what I have been advocating for the past few weeks. I hope there will be no one so foolish as to be led astray by "false brethren," or carping and disobedient critics; but that all will take my words in a humble and friendly spirit.

If ever the church has to apologize
for correcting abuses it should cease to exist; and if ever this pulpit has to preach only what is pleasing to the world its mission should come to a close.

Every Christian has a right to his personal opinions in matters that are not essential to faith or morals.

This is the boast of every intelligent man in every free country. If therefore, some hold that the moderate use of liquor is the better way for temperance, I cannot condemn them
for their opinion. On the other hand, if others hold that total abstinence
is the safer way and the best solution of the drink question, it is unfair for them to be condemned. Under certain conditions each side may be honestly
and justly defended; and if both sides
work together they are certain to accomplish the greatest good. Therefore,
I cannot on principle, oppose my neighbor, who wishes to promote the temperate use of spirituous liquors;
but at the same time he should not go beyond the just limits of his position and endeavor to obstruct or defeat by misrepresentation, or any other unfair methods the means that total abstainers are honestly using to promote their principles. Both can and should work harmoniously.

Again, if I find that those who advocate the moderate use and what some call the "golden mean," and at the same time stealthily or openly use
unlawful means to attain this end;
if, furthermore, I find that they counsel, consent, flatter, praise, command, conceal, partake of or participate in any way in the "crimes of those who not only use but also abuse
the intoxicating stuff, then I feel that they are no longer to be treated as honest people; as people who are truthful and honorable; as people who are respectful to the law and to the rights of others, and consequently, as people who are dangerous to the well-being of the individual, the family and the state; and therefore as people who have no rights in this matter
under the moral or civil law which the moral or civil authorities can consistently respect. The church and the state have to enforce their respective authorities, and all who are not on the side of anarchy recognize their rights.
Every good citizen obeys even a bad

law, if it is not against his conscience,
until it is abrogated.

Now, the total abstainer does more to stop the crime of drunkenness than the moderate user, because at once he effectually removes its cause. The moderate drinker does not seem to think that he has any obligation to help his neighbor to overcome the sin
of drunkenness if that obligation demands the sacrifice of the cause. He must admit that the use of the poisonous stuff is the thing that takes away
the use of reason and occasions his neighbor to sin. He is asked to exercise his personal freedom for the love of his neighbor and not to use this
any longer; not to put this stumbling block or scandal in his neighbor's way; and for the love of God and the salvation of his neighbor's soul he is asked to give up without the sacrifice of any principle a beverage which is neither useful nor necessary to soul or body. On the other hand, he is asked to abstain totally from a drug that is the cause of more crime and misery than any other evil under the sun, at least among Christian nations.
Yet in the face of all this, and in the presence of facts, the most urgent and appalling; in the face of future crimes
that will be caused by the some relentless agency; in the presence of the generation of the youth that he sees growing around him and the experience of the past appealing to him, the modest, gentle, God-fearing, golden-measured temperate drinker refuses to open his heart to a generous and heroic impulse; to lift his hand in defense of the holiest cause; to make one Christ-like sacrifice for the salvation of his brother, though that sacrifice would practically cost him nothing! Tell me, in the light of the teaching of the God-man; tell me, in the presence of the genius of Christian Civilization, is this worthy of our race? Is this a mark of superior manhood? Is this a characteristic of benevolence, friendship or brotherly love? Or, rather is it not the reverse of all that lies at the basic virtue of Christianity? Yea, does it not turn into mockery all that is contained in that sublime demand: "Unless you deny yourself, you cannot be my disciple!"

The great vices of every age since the fall of angels and man have been pride and selfishness; and if you search for the radical cause of the vice of intemperance you are sure to find it in one or the other of these. The proud man will not brook restraint
and the selfish man is too blind to see good in anything that does not in the first instance concern himself.
He may observe the wrecks that happen around him; but he will hardly be persuaded that it was he who helped to swell the storm that caused them.
He stolidly insists, like Cain, that "he is not his brother's keeper" and therefore he must not be held accountable for his brother's fall; and while he may recognize the law of charity he clings to the old principle that he was not bound by "strict justice" to give up what is in itself good and in its use legitimate. Ah, how many men and women have there not been completely ship-wrecked on the sea of faith and morals by reason of this very rock known to theological mariners as the barrier of Strict Justice. Oh yes, strict justice interpreted alone, in its solitary austerity,
may excuse the selfish and the proud;
but taken in the company of Divine
and human charity, it becomes either a monster to be condemned or an executioner that will wreck the vengeance of God's wrath on all those that have abused it. No, you cannot be a Christian unless you be generous,
unselfish and charitable; nor can you

be a man without friendship, benevolence and self-sacrifice.

We have the greatest country and the best government in the world and to maintain the unity and perpetuity
of both we must have virtuous people.
We need more virtue here, where we make our laws and rule ourselves,
than is needed under great empires.
Above all we need sound minds and pure bodies. I do not say that both of these cannot be without total abstinence; but I do say that they cannot be for the majority without it;
and again, I do say that the majority cannot be as pure and sound as they would be without it. And finally I say, what the world knows, that a large percentage are neither pure nor trustworthy, nor unselfish nor in any degree noble, because of the use of it.
If it be said that it is only among fanatics like Mohammedans that total abstinence is practical, I answer,
were it not for total abstinence Mohammed and Turkey would not be the power they are today. As fighters and heroes they present a picture of chivalry and patriotism, in their own way, that has never been surpassed;
and whatever star hovers around their crescent flag, are there chiefly through the power with which abstinence from intoxicating drink supplied their minds and arms. On the other hand, the worst defects and the darkest spots that hang around the banner of the cross were due to intemperance and drunkenness. Therefore, let me appeal to every one, especially to the staid youth—the hope of our beloved country—to come beneath the banner of self-denial for the glory of our land. Let us in the words of the Apostle, "Be sober and watch," that we may as spiritual athletes not only conquer the devil, but also as physical athletes vanquish every hostile
arm that may dare to raise itself
against our flag or threaten to invade
our country's borders.
For God, our country and happy
homes let us become total abstainers.

MASSACRE OF CHRISTIANS BY TURKISH TROOPS

Teheran, Persia, Aug. 5.—A massacre of Christians by Turkish troops has just occurred in the little Persian village of Mavanen. An official report states that 18 men and 63 women and children lost their lives. The Turks forced the small Persian garrison defending the town to evacuate their camp and then bombarded the village, completely destroying it. The massacre of Christians followed. An official report reaching here says that six thousand Persian cavalry have joined the Turkish force in threatening the town of Urumiah. Urumiah is a city of 50,000 population in Persian Armenia. It is noted as a city of missionary activity and is the seat of the Fiske Seminary for Girls and the Urumiah University.

CLERK OF COURTS BEGINS 2ND TERM

MR. HURSEY WISELY RETAINS
MR. EDWIN M. LARASON AS DEPUTY.

Records Are Well Kept and Officials
in Clerk's Office are Always Very Accommodating.

Monday James W. Hursey our popular and obliging clerk of courts began his second term, to which office he was so overwhelmingly elected last fall. This second term will consist of only two years instead of three as heretofore, owing to the recent election law passed by the last Legislature, on account of which it became necessary to increase the term of

JAMES W. HURSEY.

clerk of courts to four years or cut it to two, and the latter was chosen, which makes all county offices two year offices, except probate judge, which was increased to four years. Mr. Hursey well deserves the honor bestowed upon him by the electors of this county, as he is a man possessed of a degree of sociability, accommodation and philanthropy, rarely found among men, and has made an excellent official, serving the people well, and keeping the records in his office in a neat, clean and accurate manner, wholly satisfactory to all and especially those who have been interested in court proceedings, and he enters upon the duties of his second term with the best wishes and greatest confidence of the public, and we predict for him the same degree of success during the present term as has attended him through his first. Mr. Hursey has retained the services of Edwin M. Larason as his deputy in office, and in this he is to be congratulated, as all who have any knowledge of the workings of the office during the past term, well know that when it comes to efficiency, Ed is "there with the goods." His services have been universally satisfactory and gratifying, and especially so with the members of the Licking county bar, who have come to look upon him as a "bureau of information" relative to Common Pleas and Circuit court records. He is possessed of a remarkable memory, carrying the exact numbers of a large per cent of pending suits, likewise the status and style of many in his mind, thus being able to save much time and labor to those seeking court statistics. He is a good penman, rapid, accurate and abiding and an ideal deputy, and many improvements are noticeable in the manner and method of keeping the office records, and while the new salary law, Bureau of Uniform Accounting and Naturalization laws have added many difficult duties to the office, all have been mastered and well executed and complied with.

EDWIN M. LARASON.

WONDERFUL TYPE WRITING MACHINE

In Columbus, Ohio, a man has produced a mechanical typewriter, that promises to eliminate the present day pretty stenographer, that has become such a familiar fixture in the modern office. This machine will actually write letters at the rate of 1,000 words a minute, continuously and do the work correctly and automatically. This wonderful machine will be on exhibition at the National Business Shows to be held in New York and Chicago this fall. The machine may be operated in two ways. If it is desired to make a number of copies of the same letter with different names and addresses, it will perform this work producing in each case an original letter in one, two or three colors, fill in the name and address, and add the signature. A business man desiring to dictate may use this automatic typewriter by talking his letters into a device like a phonograph, transfer the record to the machine, turn on the electric current and go home. The next morning the letters will all be done, and the machine will automatically stop when all the letters are written. It will also address envelopes and wrappers and count them as well. It will write forwards or backwards and if desired the lines may be justified like type, which at the present time is impossible on ordinary typewriters. A Rousing Time at North End Revival Yesterday—Rev. Mr. Dillin Preached.

Yesterday was the red letter day of the revival meetings in the North End. All the services were well attended, and great interest was manifested. The work of the day resulted in many conversions and 20 more additions to the church. Last night a great crowd filled the auditorium to overflowing and many could not find room.

Evangelist Dillin's sermon on "The Drama of Life" produced the most profound impression and the altars were crowded with seekers. Many mothers wept tears of joy as their wondering boys were converted. At tonight's meeting the church will elect its officers and begin to raise the funds for the erection of a church building. The society already has 100 members and prospects for many more. Evangelist Dillin will preach this evening a special sermon to parents on "A Drama in Married Life," in four acts. Miss Dillin will sing. All are invited.

WALKER'S ABSENCE MORE MYSTERIOUS NOW THAN EVER

ANXIETY OF FRIENDS INCREASED BY DISCOVERY OF FUNDS IN THE BANK.

Lawyer Left More Than a Year Ago
For South Africa—Wife is Now
in New York.

The anxiety of friends of Attorney Frank S. Walker, from whom nothing has been heard for many months, is increased by the fact that the administrator of the estate of his aunt, Attorney Frank P. Haines, has discovered in a safety deposit vault of the Columbus Savings & Trust company, securities which purport to be the funds of the estate over which the sister of Mr. Walker has worried so much of late. Mr. Walker formerly of Zanesville, is well known in Newark, having married Miss Sarah Barwick of this city several years ago. Mrs. Walker is said to be in New York.

Attorney Walker left Columbus more than a year ago with the purpose of securing for Columbus people a contract with the British government for the furnishing of the Mustangs from South Africa for the army. In February Columbus friends heard from Mr. Walker in South Africa that the contract had fallen through and that he would be home. He did not return immediately, and a sister in Zanesville had him removed as administrator of the estate of an aunt, Margaret Walker, valued at about $15,000.

The new administrator, Attorney Haines, last week looked through Mr. Walker's affairs at the bank and found more than $1,200 on deposit there belonging to him. He also found in the safety deposit box of the absent attorney seven envelopes, the wrappers of which showed them to contain securities which would amount to more than his sister's share of the estate.

The new administrator left Columbus in such a hurry that he did not inform any of Mr. Walker's friends what the envelopes contained. The mere fact that the securities were there and that nothing has been heard from Mr. Walker, worries his friends more than did the report that the estate might have become involved under his administration.

MARVELOUS GROWTH OF PAINT INDUSTRY IN UNITED STATES

Something About the Manufacture of Paint and the Remarkable Increase in the Amount Used in the Last Fifty Years.

The use of paint in this country has grown to remarkable proportions within the past fifty years and the facts and figures furnished by statistics on this branch of industry are somewhat startling when first presented.

According to these figures, in the year 1860 there was hardly a gallon of mixed paint sold, while in 1903 the sales are estimated at something like 30,000,000 gallons. Today of course the number of gallons would far exceed those figures.

The industry began with one or two small makers and has continued to grow until there are now hundreds of paint manufacturers scattered over the country and all kinds and qualities of paint are flooding the market.

The opposition with which painters first met the idea of a ready mixed paint is gradually dying out for the reason that the practical painter has been forced to recognize that machine ground and mixed paint such as offered by reputable manufacturers, is a much superior article than that ground and mixed by hand.

One of the big institutions manufacturing a practical and absolutely high grade line of paints is The Marietta Paint and Color Co., of Marietta, Ohio, already famous throughout the United States and Canada, for its stains, fillers and wood finishing materials. This company's "Aurora" Paints, "Spartan" White Lead and Spartan Stain are now widely known for their honest qualities. These goods were first placed on the market ten years ago and have won a place for themselves in face of every kind of competition.

FRANCE

Takes Time by the Forelock Notwithstanding the Promises of the Sultan.

Tangier, Morocco, Aug. 5.—Up to date no further advice have been received from Casablanca. The arrival there of the French cruiser Galilee made a good impression, but the Euro peans were still greatly excited, as 2,000 Arab horsemen were in sight of the city. The commander of the Galilee offered to bombard the town but the foreign consuls prevented this action. All foreign business houses and the banks are closed, and business is at a standstill. The Italian cruiser Etna, with the Italian minister aboard, has arrived at Casablanca. The excuses presented by the emissary of Mohammed El Torres, foreign representative of the sultan, for the disturbances at Casablanca, have been received here with derision.

There is no confirmation here that the Zaer tribesmen threaten to attack the town of Rebat.

In spite of his wound, it is reported that General Bagdadi, head of the government force operating against the bandit Raisuli, in an endeavor to rescue Caid Sir Harry MacLean, is pressing on. It is said the tribesmen are frightened at the manner in which Bagdadi is sacking and burning villages, and are negotiating with Raisuli for the release of MacLean.

Spain Means Business. Madrid, Aug. 5.—At a five-hours' session of the cabinet Franco-Spanish action in Morocco and a note to the powers were discussed. At the close of the meeting General Primo-Rivero, the war minister, announced that the Spanish contingent to Morocco would not exceed 500 men. He said they would go on board a warship.

French Vessels Dispatched. Paris, Aug. 5.—The government received, through the French charge d'affaires at Tangier, the excuses of the Moroccan governing board for the troubles at Casablanca, and its usual assurances that its orders have been given to the governors of the various ports that they will be held responsible for the security of foreigners. But these platonic assurances will not affect the program the government is elaborating with Spain, and for which active preparations are proceeding. The Second naval division, consisting of the cruisers Cuydon, Gloire and Jeanne D'Arc, sailed from Toulon for Morocco. The entire coast of that country probably will be patrolled by French and Spanish fleets until the international police are installed. Foreign Minister Pinchon conferred with President Fallieres at Rambouillet concerning the situation. General A. M. B. Drude, commanding the First regiment of the Fourth Algerian Tuhilours, is an energetic officer, who has spent his entire career in the colonies.

RYAN-BELMONT MERGER INQUIRY BEGINS.

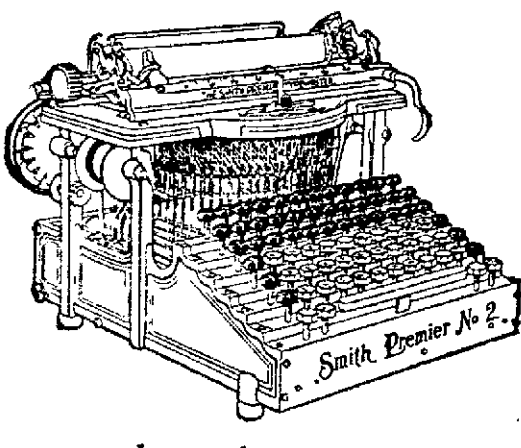

New York, Aug. 5.—Under vigorous cross examination at the hands of William N. Juras, special counsel for the Public Service Commission, Theodore P. Scott, president of the Interborough Metropolitan Railway system, gave away some secrets of the famous merger. Mr. Scott admitted that the merged company not only could add all the Great subway and elevated lines in the city of New York, but also controlled the Union Railway in the Bronx, the Yonkers Railway company, in Westchester county, and the trolley road to New Rochelle and Mamaroneck.

New York, Aug. 5.—Well in body and spirit, content with the present and optimistic of the future, H. C. Frick, the steel man, returned from a pleasure trip in England, France and Germany. "There is no more significance to be attached to my return at this time than there was to my leaving on a pleasure trip," he said. Mr. Frick's only comment on the fine given the Standard Oil company was, "It's no affair of mine." He declined to comment on financial matters.

Well, the big game is over and we were defeated, but we needn't feel ashamed of the trouncing.

Talk about a top notch game, fast playing, etc. You would get anything in that line you desired at Wehrle Park yesterday.

It was regular major league play from the time "play ball" was called until the end.

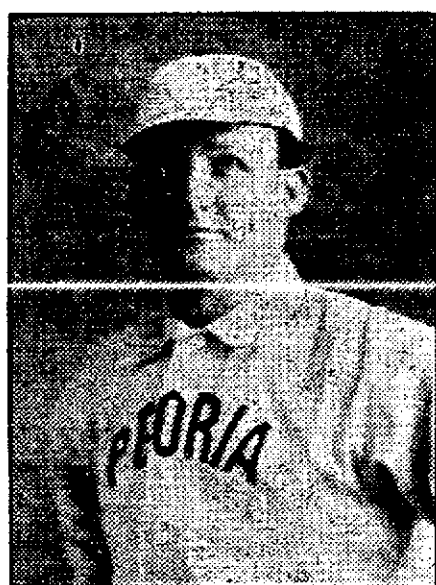

The fast Brooklyn aggregation of the National league arrived in the city shortly after 12 o'clock. There were eighteen in the party, thirteen players and five gentlemen who came along to help take care of the gates.

The party was under the care of Henry W. Medline, and were met at the depot by Manager Frank Maurath and several of the local club officials and escorted to the Seiler hotel, where dinner was served.

They left for the park at 2 o'clock and had a half hour's practice before the game. The Trolley Dodgers showed up in checked gray suits which were out in the garden looked similar to those worn by the Molders.

The game was umpired by Henrie Batch, a member of the Brooklyn team, and his decisions were fair and gave perfect satisfaction.

We wish to impress one thing upon your minds and that is that it was a ball game, for the big leaguers had orders from President Ebbetts to go in and clean and do their level best to pile up the points. And they did so, because they were working under the instructions of the main guy. We all know who won the game. It was due to him with the National reputation, the gentleman who attends all great events, one Mr. Bill Lumley. While leads the bingers in the National league, and one of the gentlemen from Brooklyn informed the Advocate that Willie's extras in purses and prizes would run over $1200 for the season. He has been awarded four suits of clothes, one of them a $50 front, which he captured in Chicago last week, 18 pairs of trousers, 23 pairs of shoes, silk underwear, fancy hosiery, watches, chains and charms in endless variety and over $500 in money. This is surely a good record and William ought to have wardrobe enough to paper his front for years to come. He hits the sign boards where owners offer prizes for the swat, and Brooklyn has refused $10,000 for him.

Play was called at 3 o'clock, and Manager Bob sent in Asher and Pearce. For Brooklyn Bell and Ritter went in to earn their bread and butter. We tell how the scores were made below.

Newark sustained the reputation which she proudly carries, of having the fastest bunch of infielders and sun garden chasers in the league, by pulling off several sensational plays.

The first steal was attempted by Burch, but he didn't know Bunny. He was caught by fully 15 feet and when he came back to the bench wore a sheepish grin and had to take a lot of kidding from the bugs and players on his own team. Hummell was the only player who risked a steal and would have been caught but Gyg was playing off a good ways and Pearce's throw was a little low.

Al Schweitzer, he who has acquired additional fame by pulling off a sprinting match prize in Akron recently, got a single and a double and then to cap the climax made a great play by running with the speed of a deer to deep right center, accepting a chance that looked like an impossibility and pulled down Lumley's fly. He finished the stunt by doubling, throwing Casey out at first. The Cheese Man received round after round of applause and was forced to doff his cap.

Lefty Snyder and Fielder Smith also did fine work but it remained for Gyg to pull off a gallery play that will be talked off for days to come. It was in the ninth and Casey hit the ball up, sending it across second base like a cannon ball. Gyg made the run, sticking his left hand out sideways and had to twist it to the left, but he caught and held on to the ball. It was only a couple of feet above the ground. The play, or catch, rather, was certainly a fine one, and Frank was cheered again and again.

What more can be said of the game? Twice did we come near scoring with a man on third, but the lucky bill was absent. We outlasted the visitors in the field but Lumley's home run did the business.

The game was a great one and was highly spoken of by everyone present. The visitors complimented the team and stated that there was no doubt but what it was the fastest in the O. P. league. They left for Pittsburgh on the limited in the evening, taking supper en route.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

Hummell was the first man out Mr. Asher retired him in one, two, three order by the Zephyr route. Casey, you remember how De Wolfe Hopper used to say it, well he made good and lammed out a single and Mr. Lumley stepped to the front and what he did to the little leather ball was a caution. It sailed right over the right field fence and we believe it is sailing yet. Casey scored and Lumley trotted slowly around the line. Lewis fled out to Smith and Jordan, he with the big batting average, fanned the air and took a seat with a look of disgust on his ming. Eight straight goose eggs followed fast, and the Trolley Dodgers of National fame could not succeed in getting farther than second base.

FRANK GYGLI,

Who made one of the most sensational catches ever seen at the park.

Smith, the first man up drew a pass and Snyder fled out on a foul to Burch. Wratten grounded to Jordan. Schweitzer singled and Smith was thrown out at second.

In the second Haval fanned, Winters went out, Ritter to Jordan, and Gygli followed suit by rolling an easy one to Bell, who tossed it to Jordan and the side retired.

In the third Pearce was walked, Asher fled out to Maloney and Pearce was caught trying to steal. Smith sent a slow one over to Jordan, who was playing off first quite a little ways, but had plenty of time to get to the sack first if he had made the effort. He loafed on the job and when he saw that Smith had a look in he made a jump for the first sack, sliding into it feet first and was spiked by the runner. Time was called and Jordan was forced to leave the game, Bill Bergen being substituted. The next man up, Snyder, hit an easy one to Bell and was thrown out at first.

In the fourth Wratten went out, Lewis to Bergen, and was followed by the Cheese Man, who gave the ball an awful swat on the nose, making a beauty of a double. Haval went out on a foul to Bergen and Winters went out Lewis to Bergen. Schweitzer's double counted for naught.

In the fifth Gyg hit a high one, which was pulled down by Maloney, who did not have to move out of his tracks. Pearce followed and hit one into the same gent's mitts. Asher changed the monotony a little by giving Mr. Burch a chance and he pulled down the high one. In the sixth Smith drew a deadhead ticket and was sacrificed by Snyder. Wratten hit a high one which was copped by Burch and Schweitzer sent one down the line to Lewis, Smith going out on the play at third.

In the seventh Haval hit one down to Lewis and was thrown out at the bag. Winters binged a safety and Gygli fled out to Lumley. Pearce fanned.

In the eighth Asher singled, Smith fanned, Snyder walked, Wratten went out Casey to Bergen and Schweitzer fanned.

Newark did not score until the ninth, when Sammy Haval stepped to the front and binged for a pretty single. He was followed by Winters who repeated Sammy's stunt and things assumed a cheerful aspect.

It began to look good and everyone of the 2,500 people present began cheering for the home laddies. Gygli followed and hit a grounder to Rucker who threw him out at first, but it cost a run. He could have thrown Haval out at third or at least made a try for Winters at second but he accepted the easiest chance. There was now one down, with a man on second and third and the fans were working. Pearce stepped to the front with a look of determination on his features. Oh, just for a nice single, one pretty little swat. Bunny smashed, but it was one of those high ones. It sailed way out to deep center and was captured by the gentleman of Irish extraction, one Mr. Maloney. It brought in the only run made by Newark's pride, for Sammy sprinted home. Scotty stuck hard to second and Big Eddie tried hard for a safety, finding the mall all right, but it was headed off by Lewis, and he threw him out at the amen corner, and one of the best and fastest games ever pulled off at Wehrle Park was over. WE GO DOWN TO SECOND PLACE

Through Youngstown winning from Marion yesterday the Molders are forced into second place by the small margin of three points. We have held the lead continuously since June 26.

Forty consecutive days is a record that we may well feel proud of. The Molders have demonstrated their ability to play fast ball. They meet the Champs on their own grounds today, tomorrow and Saturday. The boys will put forth every effort to down them and try and win back their lost standing as the leaders. We have quite a few games at home yet, and the end is far away. Our loyal fans are going to root just as hard as they know how and when the last game is called for the season you will find the Newark laddies hovering close around the top.

The team left Sunday evening for Mansfield, where they remained all night, getting a good rest, and this morning left for Youngstown.

Your Hair Needs Care

Where are the fast Millers? Toledo rolled up a score of 16 in Saturday's game with them.

The White Sox have regained their lost prestige and are again back to the top.

When the horses of James R. Keene's stables were unloaded at Saratoga Sunday, the unbeaten two year old Colin, among them, was ailing slightly. The colt, with several others of the Keene horses, was coughing before he was shipped. The news of Colin's supposed sickness aroused much interest among horsemen as much depends on whether Colin is well enough to start in the Saratoga Special Saturday.

One week from today the Reds start on their last eastern trip, playing four games in New York, four in Brooklyn, six in Philadelphia, and three in Boston. It is dollars to doughnuts they will do better on this trip than they did on the last one.

The Reds will be accompanied to Springfield Friday by a big bunch of rooters, who want to be present to celebrate "Mitchell Day," which bids fair to be the banner event of the season at the home of popular Mike. Springfield has a good lead now in the Central league race, and the Reds cannot afford to slip any cogs there or they will get place money only.

Danny Daub, who was signed up as an ump in the Central league recently, mention of which was made in Saturday's Advocate, was the twirler who brought the Denison team into prominence in the early '90's. He left them, going to Cincinnati, and is winding up his career on the diamond as an arbitrator.

Earl Coatt, formerly of this city, but now of Cincinnati, is visiting friends there. Earl is a great rooter for the Molders.

The Cincinnati Reds copped two from the Bean Eaters Sunday. They will have to go some to get into the first division though.

Columbus and Toledo both won their games yesterday. The Senators are due for a brace and when it happens, look out.

Blount is the man to blame. He drove in the winning run for the Champs.

John Sullivan of Kansas City, caught 21 games without any misplays, but Blue of Columbus, went him a few better and rolled up 26 games.

Detroit only held the leadership 24 hours, as the Sox won two from New York Saturday. Here's hoping the same thing happens to Youngstown.

CHEERING WORDS FROM THE EAST

Sharon, Aug. 5.—The week just closed in the O. P. league found the teams in practically the same position with one exception. Youngstown, by consistent playing has closed the gap and passed Newark. Akron has recovered from its slump and has a good chance of overtaking the leaders. New Castle and Lancaster are fighting it out for first division position, while Marion, Mansfield and Sharon are fighting hard to keep out of last hole. Sharon is now in the despised position, but the directors are after three or four players and with about 30 more games to play at home expect to climb higher. Youngstown is traveling probably faster than any other team in the race. Manager Wright is determined to win the pennant and is sparing no expense. He landed Jude of Columbus last week and is now after another infielder and a couple of pitchers. Tales about the O. P. going to smash are without foundation.

REIGN OF TERROR IN NEW YORK CITY

The Mob Spirit Rampant, and Many Innocent Victims.

ON ACCOUNT OF OUTRAGES

Almost Unsafe For a Stranger to Appear in the Part of the City Where the Recent Outrages Were Committed—Still Another Woman Molested by the Strangler.

New York, Aug. 5.—Another murderous assault was added to the police record of recent crimes against defenseless women and girls. The victim was Miss Ellen Bulger, a woman of middle age, who was attacked in her apartment in the Bronx, cruelly beaten and left in a helpless state. The woman was removed to a hospital, where it was found that her skull had apparently been fractured, her face and hands lacerated and her body otherwise bruised. There was evidence that the woman had made a courageous fight. From what the police were able to learn from her, she was surprised by a smooth-faced stranger, perhaps 40 years of age. He was coatless and wore an outing shirt and dark trousers. He escaped.

When John Bulger returned to his flat, according to the story he told the police, he found his mother lying unconscious on the floor. He revived her and she told him she had been assaulted by an Italian, who had escaped.

Louis Conconela, 21, was the victim of the blind fury of rioters, and will probably die of his injuries. He was innocent of wrongdoing, but fell before a crowd determined to have revenge. Sadie Hamberger, aged 8, while playing in the hall way of her tenement home in East Ninety-fifth street, cried out that a man had seized her. The child's father seized George Keshner, a Russian bookbinder, by the throat. The excitement attracted hundreds of men and women who fought with each other to get a chance at the Russian. Thirty policemen rescued Keshner, bleeding from a score of wounds, and when all his clothing had been torn from him. The police wrapped the prisoner in a blanket and hurried him away.

About the same time Hylo Saloda nearly lost his scalp in Forty-fourth street. He was accused of having offered pennies to a girl of 12 years. The father wanted to know why, and Saloda showed fight. He slashed about him with a penknife and knocked down a policeman. A crowd of 1,000 attempted to reach Saloda, but were beaten back, and Saloda was taken to the station.

Louis Conconela was the victim of circumstances. A man and wife quarreled in One Hundred and Seventeenth street, and their young daughter went out to the sidewalk and wept. A passing boy slapped her and ran away. The girl's cries and the running boy aroused the neighbors, who chased the lad. The boy escaped, and Conconela, who had outstepped the other pursuers, was taken by the mob for the girl's assailant. Overtaken at last, Conconela was set upon, knocked down and kicked until nearly dead.

Another Kind of Trouble. The fighting element among the whites and blacks in the vicinity of One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street and Fifth avenue lined up according to their racial prejudices again, this time to settle a baseball dispute, and when the argument was ended 50 persons required medical treatment and two will die. Probably 5,000 persons took part in the fight, and it took 200 policemen to disperse the mob. John McCue, 32, and Matthew Murtha, 35, received fractured skulls and were removed to a hospital in a dying condition. The injuries of others ranged from broken noses to serious razor cuts. The trouble started at a ball game when a white man and a colored man had made a wager and subsequently quarreled over the settlement, and a general row followed. Every sort of weapon was used, and for blocks the constantly augmented mob surged while the police reserves from eight precincts hammered away with their clubs. Occupants of homes along the line of battle hurled every piece of crockery or furniture that could be spared down upon the heads of the rioters with impunity. Even women and children joined the fray. It was two hours before the police controlled the situation.

Japanese Make Sealing Raid.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 5.—Advices have been received of an attempted sealing raid by the Japanese sealing schooners Kaike Maru and Midori Maru on June 1, on the seal rookery at Copper Island, guarded by Russians. The schooner Kaike Maru has returned to Japan and reported three of her sealing boats and 12 men captured by Russians. The other schooner, the Midori Maru, which had been anchored close to the Kaike Maru, had been damaged by the shell fire from a field gun on shore. Investigation by the local authorities shows that the two schooners had gone to Copper Island to raid the seal rookery and had been surprised by the Russian guard, which had been strengthened and armed with a field gun in addition to rifles since the organized raid of Japanese sealing vessels of the season before. One of the Japanese sealers was shot and 12 captured.

BIG DITCH

About to Be Dug Connecting the Lakes and the Ohio.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 5.—It is announced that the surveys for the proposed canal from Lake Erie to the Ohio river have been completed. Land for the right of way is now being rapidly acquired, and active digging on the waterway will, it is said, begin early next spring. When the big undertaking is completed it will be possible for lake vessels to carry iron ore direct from Lake Superior to furnaces in the Pittsburgh district and to send coal from western Pennsylvania mines to upper lake ports.

It will require about six years to complete the task and an expenditure of no less than $75,000,000. The proposed canal will be 123 miles in length, 177 feet in width and 13 feet deep. A special line of boats will be constructed for this traffic. The canal will follow the natural waterway as nearly as possible. It will connect with Lake Erie at a point a few miles west of Ashtabula, run southward through creek valleys, the Mahoning river and Beaver creek, and join the Ohio river at Beaver, Pa., about 30 miles north-west of Pittsburgh. The canal will pass through Youngstown, O.; Newcastle and Beaver, Pa., and by means of the Ohio and Monongahela rivers will touch scores of furnaces and other industrial plants and coal fields along the route.

Pretender Is Sorry.

Madrid, Aug. 4.—Dispatches received here from Melilla, Morocco, report that the pretender has taken advantage of the present situation in that country to curry favor with Europe and has sent a delegation of rebel chiefs to protest against the events at Casablanca. The delegates of the pretender say, declare that the pretender as a sign of mourning suspended the fetes arranged in celebration of his recent victory and is disposed to co-operate with European initiative in measures to ameliorate the situation in the territory he controls. The Epoca strongly reproaches the newspapers which think the government should turn its back upon international engagements, and advocates giving the government a free hand.

The Open Air Cure.

St. Louis, Aug. 5.—An organization composed of prominent business men, physicians and women of social distinction, known as the St. Louis society for the relief and prevention of tuberculosis, has inaugurated a crusade against that disease by holding open air evening meetings throughout the city in public school grounds, where the masses are instructed concerning sanitation and hygiene by means of lectures illustrated by stereoscopic views. In the evening, half an hour before the meeting, aerial bombs are exploded and a band is utilized to draw a crowd. Prominent physicians deliver lectures, urging cleanliness in living, plenty of fresh air and sunlight.

Record Broken.

Belfontaine, Aug. 5.—For the first time since the Franco-Prussian war a French musical society participated with the approval of the German government in musical fetes in Alsace. The members of the society marched with the tri-color flying and every where were received with cheering.

British Drydock.

Port of Spain, Aug. 5.—A 4,000-ton floating dock built in England arrived here. It was towed from the river Tyne by two Dutch tugs. It is the first dock of its kind to be placed in British West Indian waters, and will afford facilities for repairs to warships and other vessels.

One Killed, Several Hurt.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 5.—Robert Orr of Dwight was killed and seven others were seriously injured in a collision of interurban cars near here. The collision was caused by failure of the airbrakes on one of the cars to work.

Lightning Causes Big Fire.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 5.—The large fertilizer plant here of the Armour Fertilizer company was totally destroyed by fire, which was started by a stroke of lightning. Loss $105,000, fully insured.

Honored in Hawaii.

Honolulu, Aug. 5.—A reception was given by Governor Carter to Secretary of Commerce and Labor Straus and Congressman and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. Five thousand persons were present.

Burned a Village.

Tangier, Aug. 5.—Official advices say that the Sherifian troops have attacked and burned the village of Hauta, near Raisuli's abode. It now transpires that when, July 27, the Knass tribesmen demanded that Raisuli surrender, Raisuli suddenly vanished, because they feared an attack by the sultan's troops. Raisuli suddenly vanished, taking MacLean with him into the hills, where he left him in charge of his (Raisuli's) brother. MacLean was then badly treated, but after five days he was brought back again. Negotiations for his release continue.

The Mississippi Primaries.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 5.—Until the votes cast in the Democratic primary of last Thursday are canvassed this week, result of the senatorial contest will to a certain extent remain in doubt. Complete unofficial returns show a plurality in favor of Congressman John Sharp Williams over Governor Vardaman, but this plurality is comparatively small and neither Governor Vardaman or his managers will concede defeat, declaring that the official review of the vote will show the governor's election by a small majority.

THAT SKINNER BOY.

He Has More or Less Sport With a Lawn Mower.

HIS MOTHER WASN'T WISE.

Thought Her Darling Boy Could Be Trusted to Bring Home Machine Head of Household Had Purchased From a Neighbor.

[Copyright, 1937, by P. C. Eastment.] "Humpty," said Mrs. Skinner as her oldest and only was looking all over the house after breakfast for his cap and his schoolbooks and declaring that some thief had got in during the night and stolen them, "you needn't go to school this morning. I have got an errand for you to do. Mr. Jackson, who lives over on Wintergreen street, was here last evening, and he sold your father his lawn mower for $2. You can go and bring it home and cut the grass in the back yard. Do you think you are big enough to do that?"

"Why, ma, I could bring home ten mowers!" was the boy's enthusiastic answer as he found his books under the lounge and his cap in the kitchen next minute.

"You'll have to be very careful. It's a responsible thing to drag a lawn mower through the streets. Dogs and cats and boys will follow you the same as they do a wild west show."

"But I've wheeled a wheelbarrow over two miles without anything happening."

"Yes, I remember, but a wheelbarrow does not go bur-r-r-r when you wheel it along. Your father paid cash down for that mower, and if anything should happen to it I don't know what he would say and do. Don't you go after it unless you think—"

"But I do think," interrupted Humpty. "If I ain't big enough to bring a mower home, then I ought to be spanked and put to bed."

After a little more argument and several cautions he was permitted to depart, and he went his way with proud heart. He had gone only one block when the Watkins boy came out of a grocery with a package of sugar and wanted to know what was up. On being told he said:

"Would Have Liked the British. "And I'll go along, and we'll get about ten other boys. Say, Humpty, it will be the greatest thing you ever saw. You can have lots of fun with a wheelbarrow, but it don't begin with a mower. My father says that if Napoleon had had 10,000 lawn mowers at the battle of Waterloo he'd licked the British all hollow."

A minute later they picked up the Simpson boy and the Taylor boy, and then came two unknown but enthusiastic hoodlums. Before Wintergreen street was reached the crowd numbered ten, and the Watkins boy constituted himself as assistant leader of the expedition and halted the band to say:

"Now, kids, it's almost the same as if we were going out to fight Indians. Every boy has got to keep his eyes skinned for the enemy and look out for his scalp. Any one that runs away will be called a coward. Humpty Skinner is the general, and what he says goes. We will now bear down upon the hostile village and wipe it off the face of the earth."

This was satisfactory to all but one of the hoodlums. He wanted it to be a band of highway robbers instead, but after a brief tussle, in which he had his hair pulled and his nose skinned, he gave up and marched along in humble spirit. Mrs. Jackson was ready to turn over the mower, but took Humpty aside and asked:

"Bub, do you fully realize what it means to drag a mower through the streets?"

"I do," was the reply. "It's different from walking up to a dog stand and buying two bananas for five cents."

"I know."

"There's a bur-r-r-r and a whir-r-r-r to it as you push it along."

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, if you are prepared to take the consequences I have no more to say. If anything happens to the mower your father mustn't blame us."

"No, ma'am."

Was Dragged Down the Street.

The lawn mower was dragged out of the yard and down the street for a block. Humpty and the Watkins boy pushed it ahead of them, and the others ran on ahead or followed on behind. When they had gone a block and a half they came upon a milkman's horse and wagon hitched in front of a bakery. The old horse had heard a thousand different noises without becoming frightened, but when that bur-r-r-r reached his ears and he saw the band of boys charging down upon him he reared up and then made a bolt down the street. The driver came rushing out and cuffed three or four of the crowd and then followed after the horse. Humpty was scared, but the Watkins boy braced him up by saying:

"A lawn mower has got the same rights on the streets as a milk wagon, and they can't touch you. S'pose the mower had got scared and run away, could you have done anything with the milkman?"

"Things went all right for the next five minutes, and then a policeman stopped the band and said:

"Drawing an infernal machine through the streets, are you? Well, I'll soon put a stop to that."

"Please, sir, but it's only a lawn mower," explained Humpty.

"Then what's it making that noise for?"

"I don't know, sir."

"But you ought to know, and his honor will see that you do know when you are brought before him. You are on your way to blow up the city hall, and don't you dare deny it."

"Please, sir, but I think I know why the mower makes that whirling noise," volunteered the Watkins boy.

"Then out with it."

"I think it has the colic, sir."

"Yes, I shouldn't wonder if it was. This weather's enough to give a crowbar St. Vitus' dance. You'd better stop at the drug store and give the thing some peppermint."

Two blocks after leaving the officer, who kept following them, with eyes of suspicion, the band met four big hoodlums, who at once decided to take charge of things. There was a fight, in which they were victorious, but they were not mean spirited. After getting possession of the machine they invited the weeping and indignant Humpty and his following to enter an old wood yard with them and witness the fun. They had a goat shut up therein, and the fun speedily began. The biggest hoodlum took off his coat and cap and seized the handles of the mower and began to chase the goat around. When he got tired one of his crowd took up the chase, and it was continued until at length the frightened creature made a long spring and leaped the fence. Then Humpty, as owner of the mower, was trotted out and made to perform, and it was over two hours before the owner of the yard happened to pass that way and drove the whole crowd out with a club. Then the hoodlums went their way, and the mower was headed for home. It was within four blocks of the Skinner house and was being pushed along by two small boys who insisted on sharing the honors when a fat woman with a basket on her arm turned in from a side street. She no sooner caught sight of the mower than she cried out:

"Her Long Lost Wheelbarrow."

"Ah, but it is my long lost wheelbarrow in the hands of these young ruffians! Give it up to me at once!"

"But this is no wheelbarrow," protested Humpty.

"Don't talk to me, you young gallows bird! Do you think I've arrived at the age of fifty years and have got to weigh over 200 pounds and can't tell a lawn mower from a wheelbarrow? I say that it's a wheelbarrow that was stolen from me a whole year ago. There's the green paint on it to identify it. Hand it over or you shall go to jail."

"Madam, can't you see that this is not a wheelbarrow?" insisted Humpty. "A wheelbarrow has two handles and a wheel in front, while this—"

"And you'd rob a poor old woman of her only wheelbarrow, would you?" shouted the other as she grabbed for the handle to get possession.

In the struggle she was upset and her basket knocked into the middle of the street, but as the boys ran away with the machine an ice wagon came trotting along just in time to run one wheel over and reduce the thing to a wreck. The ice man stopped and began to jaw, but in a minute he was gone. The crowd of boys, with Humpty at their head, had melted away. When Humpty stopped at last only the Watkins boy was with him.

"Humpty," he asked when he could get his breath, "will your father give you a licking for this?"

"The awfulest kind of a licking."

"Will you holler for mercy?"

"I'll holler till you can hear me a mile away."

"Then the boys and me will be in the alley to hear you and be glad it ain't us. Goodby, Humpty." M. QUAD.

Their Second Meeting.

"We met; 'twas in a crowd, she looked at me. With such a look as I shall never forget. And, gazing in her eyes, I knew that she And I some other where, some time, had met."

The look she gave me filled my breast with pride. For as I halted just inside the door I knew that she remembered me and tried To recollect where we had met before.

And then it came to me, all in a flash, And in that instant she remembered, too. I'd knocked her automobile all to smash When I was nervous and my car was new.

FINE POEM'S AUTHOR

How F. M. Finch Wrote "The Blue and the Gray."

INSPIRED BY A NOBLE DEED.

Impartial Floral Tribute From Women of Columbus, Miss., to Memory of Confederate and Federal Soldiers Caused Itthaca's Ex-Judge to Pen Verses of National Repute.

It was in 1867, while the fires of hate were actively burning both north and south, that the famous poem, "The Blue and the Gray," was written, says H. J. W. Dam in the New York Tribune's Sunday Magazine. The north was flushed with triumph; the south was red with the shame of defeat, and both mourned their countless dead. A little company of grieving women at Columbus, Miss., seeing in war, as women do, only its tragedy and its woes, mournfully decorated the graves of the dead Yankee soldiers in the local graveyard as well as those of their own kin. A dispatch telling of this incident was printed in the Tribune as follows:

The women of Columbus, Miss., animated by nobler sentiments than are many of their sisters, have shown themselves impartial in their offerings to the memory of the dead. They strewed flowers alike on the graves of the Confederate and of the Federal soldiers.

This dispatch was read in the spring of 1867 by a lawyer of forty living in the town of Itthaca, N. Y., whose ardent partisanship for the north did not inhibit his sympathy with the fallen dead of the south. Though he had never published a poem, he had, as will be seen, a singularly rare poetic gift. In speaking of it this author, Francis Miles Finch, widely known in legal circles and formerly associate justice of the court of appeals of New York, who recently died at Itthaca, said:

When I read those lines in the Tribune, it struck me that the south was holding out a friendly hand and that it was our duty not only as conquerors, but as men and their fellow citizens of the nation, to grasp it. If the war was over and peace had supervened, it seemed to me that peace should be re-established in our hearts as well as upon our records.

And thus it was that he wrote of the war that was over and of the dead that remained. The whole spirit of his poem was the equality that lies in death. He gave to the conqueror his "robings of glory," to the conquered their "gloom of defeat," but was moved to say:

So with an equal splendor
The morning sun rays fall,
With a touch impartially tender,
On the blossoms blooming for all.

This was the spirit and the message—that the blossoms bloomed alike for all who had fallen.

Having written it, he desired for the first and only time in his life to have one of his poems published. His natural selection of a medium for this purpose was the Atlantic Monthly. The volume of the magazine in which, in September, 1867, it first appeared, contained verses from Oliver Wendell Holmes, E. C. Steadman, James Russell Lowell, John G. Whittier, Alice Cary, Theodore Tilton and other names of authors and poets well known in American literature.

The editor accepted the poem, but asked that the facts in the Tribune dispatch, which was quoted above it, be incorporated in its body so as to form the opening verse. The author tried this, but the result was unsatisfactory, and the poem was finally printed as originally written. The author was given in the index as "F. M. Finch," a name entirely unknown to literature. No poem by any of the famous authors named, however, has ever enjoyed a title of its widespread popularity or its powerful social result.

The Blue and the Gray.
By the flow of the inland river,
Where the fleets of iron have fled,
Where the blades of the grave grass quiver.

Asleep are the ranks of the dead:
Under the sod and the dew
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the one the blue,
Under the other, the gray.

These in the robings of glory,
Those in the gloom of defeat,
All with the battle blood gray,
In the dusk of eternity meet.

Waiting the judgment day;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the laurel, the blue,
Under the willow, the gray.

From the silence of sorrowful hours,
The desolate mourners go,
Lovingly laden with flowers,
Alike for the friend and the foe:

Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the roses, the blue,
Under the lilies, the gray.

So with an equal splendor
The morning sun rays fall,
With a touch impartially tender,
On the blossoms blooming for all:

Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the roses, the blue,
Under the lilies, the gray.

Sadly, but not with upbraiding,
The generous deed was done
In the storm of the years that are fading,
No braver battle was won:

Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the blossoms, the blue,
Under the garlands, the gray.

No more shall the war cry sever
Or the winding rivers be red;
They banish our anger forever
When they laurel the graves of our dead:

Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Love and tears for the blue,
Tears and love for the gray.

IN POLICE COURT.

Henry Hudson and Tommy O'Donnell, at least that's what they told Mayor McCleary they were, pleaded guilty to purloining two dangerous signals off the sewer which is being constructed in the East End. It cost them ten apiece and costs. Rather expensive when they could have bought a new one for about $1. Chief Sheridan ran his men down and landed them in a cemetery. He is bound to break up the practice of carrying away or destroying these signals as it is a menace to life and property.

Mike Stoja was found on the sidewalk talking a little snooty. Michael was tried and needed a little rest as the result of taking aboard a good sized jax. He had on a belt which contained $60.00, but nobody got to him, as he was lying on his face. This was surely a triumph for Mike. Mayor McCleary released the gentleman, whose first name ought to be changed out of a little change, $5 and costs, and he was glad to escape so easily as he still has $55.00 to the good.

John Lacey was given $5 and costs for a Saturday night job. He will meditate on evils of intemperance while trying to break large sized pieces of stones into smaller ones.

John Williams, colored, was brought in for prowling. He was over in the East End taking a promenade at 3 a. m., but will not do so for a few at least, unless he circles or steps it off around the stone pile. Five and costs for Johnny.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS

Second Annual Reunion of Seventh O. U. S. V. I. Held Here

Large Number of Veterans of the Regiment in Attendance --Old Officer Re-elected--Athens Next Place of Meeting--Camp Fire Tonight.

The second annual reunion of the Seventh Ohio U. S. V. I. of the First Brigade, First Division, Second Army Corps of the Spanish American War, is now in full swing, having commenced on Sunday. Nearly all of the officers of the old regiment and a large number of the enlisted men of the regiment are here, together with members of his signal and hospital corps.

The annual reunion of the Seventeenth Veteran Association, which includes the Seventeenth Regiment O. N. G., which, during the war with Spain, was mustered into the United States service as the Seventh O. U. S. V. I., is being held in conjunction with the Seventh regiment, and a large number of the members of old Company G, which was organized in 1878 at Newark, are also present and are assisting in entertaining the boys, many of whom have not met since the regiment was mustered out, but it has only quickened the hand-clasp with which they greeted one another today.

The regiment during its service contained nearly 1,400 men, and the records already compiled by the registrar, Capt. Tiffin Gilmore, show 64 deaths, which have been recorded since the regiment disbanded November 6, 1898.

Among those who had registered up to 10 o'clock Monday morning were: Sgt. Frank Chase, Sgt. Frank H. Ryan, Maj. C. W. Montgomery, Frank Roe, Charles H. Morath, all of Newark; Capt. R. S. Holtzberry of Hebron, J. C. Anderson, J. L. Baldwin of Newark; James Warthen of Utica, George D. Grasser, Corp. J. V. Scott, D. T. Nichols, John Wharton, William H. Finnegan, Dan A. Murphy, Oliver D. Irwin, George B. Deedim, Charles F. Walton, Cliff Rosebrough, J. Frank Brison, William E. Broome, James W. Weekley, I. M. Phillips, C. E. Merrick all of Newark; Capt. The business session of the meeting was called to order at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning with the President, Col. Burch, in the chair. The session was taken up principally in reading the secretary-treasurer's report, the appointment of a committee on resolutions and the appointment of an auditing committee. The report of the secretary-treasurer, in brief was as follows:

SECRETARY-TREASURER'S REPORT.

Mr. Walter J. Sears, secretary-treasurer of the association, submitted his report for the year, which was received and ordered placed on file.

According to his report the receipts of the association during the year were $25.84 and the expenditures were $23.50, leaving a balance of $2.34. Mr. Sears in his report says that in compliance with the constitution he referred to the board of trustees the question as to the amount of the registrar's fee to be charged the members, and that it had been fixed at 25 cents. It was also pointed out that the reunions of the association should afford the opportunity for three important objects: First, for comradeship; second, for remembering the dead; and third, for the revival of patriotism; that for the short time that the members can be together at these reunions that the time should not be largely taken up in formal entertainments. They should, however, be allowed the fullest freedom of the association, where each may meet, shaking hands and renewing the friendships of the camp and march.

For the purpose of remembering the dead, the beautiful tribute inaugurated at Chillicothe should be continued, that of decorating the graves of the deceased members in or near the city where the reunion is held so that the reunion shall be in effect a reunion of the living and the dead, of all the boys who marched shoulder to shoulder under the flag.

For the purpose of reviving patriotism it is believed that one old fashioned camp fire will stir the hearts of members of the association to a larger and nobler love and devotion to our country as well as create a helpful influence upon the citizenship of the community where it is held. The secretary-treasurer in conclusion said: "If, as an association, we shall bring into our lives a wider reach of the radiant sky; if we shall learn and live the lessons of patriotism which are as vital in times of peace as in war, if we shall let our comradeship reach forth its hand in a generous comprehension of all who love the flag, and who are ready to defend the Republic, then we shall do well to maintain this organization."

AFTERNOON SESSION.
The afternoon session was called to order at 2 o'clock when a detail of the members was appointed who repaired to Cedar Hill cemetery where the graves of the Spanish-American War soldiers were decorated.

At the meeting of the Association Monday afternoon the old officers of the Association were re-elected for another year.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting in Athens the first week in August, the exact date to be determined by the executive committee.

At 7:30 o'clock Monday night assembly will be blown for the big camp fire to be held at the Auditorium and a most interesting time is expected.

NOTES.

The success of the reunion being held here is due in a large measure to the hard and enthusiastic work of Col. Clifton H. Rosebrough, better known to the members of the regiment as "Rosie." From the first to the last he has labored unceasingly in the interest of the reunion and has sent personal letters to every member of the regiment whose address could be learned, urging them to attend. He also prepared the program, giving the places of interest in the city and did other valuable work, for which he has the thanks of the entire association. The members of old Co. G, and the G. A. R. and Mexican War Veterans, represented by Capt. James H. Smith, have on duty since Sunday morning assisting the boys in receiving out-of-town guests.

A matter of great interest, not only to the members of this association, but every member of all branches of the service who enlisted from Ohio during the Spanish war is that of a memorial to the Spanish War Veterans, which is the desire of this organization with the assistance of other arms of the service, to place at Camp Bushnell, the camp of rendezvous during the war. The memorial will be a statue in bronze with marble base, showing an enlisted man in heavy marching order, dressed in the regulation Kahki uniform with campaign hat and cavalry legions, carrying the regulation Krag, this outfit being used for the first time during the Spanish-American war. It has been designed by Captain Tiffin Gilmore, and to him is due the credit for the idea. The association on Monday asked the other associations, many yet to be formed, to assist in bringing the matter before the next legislature, when it is hoped that the memory of the Spanish War veterans will be perpetuated in this pleasing manner. No organization in the United States has as yet taken this matter up.

Capt. Steele is very much interested in the movement for the memorial statue commemorating Ohio's quota to the Spanish-American War, and he will submit several designs for the consideration of the committee.

The registration of the members of the regiment outside of Newark at 10 o'clock Sunday night far exceeded the total registration at Chillicothe last year. This was made possible by reason of the excellent work under the direction of Tiffin Gilmore, late adjutant of the regiment, assisted by the company registrars. Out of the membership of 1365 men, about 96 per cent of that number can be correctly addressed by their company commanders.

Those comrades who arrived Sunday with the exception of Co. H, of Chillicothe and Co. B of Athens, were only the advance guard and the other companies arrived during the day.

Col. Hamilton, late commander of the Seventh Ohio, arrived Monday morning. Col. Burch, late lieutenant colonel of the regiment, arrived Sunday.

Captain Lowry of Company B, and Captain W. H. West of Company E, of New Mattamoras, entertained the members of their companies with a trolley ride to Idlewild Park and Buckeye Lake Sunday.

A special meeting of Sam Williams Camp, of the U. S. V., Sunday was honored by the attendance of Walter J. Sears, commander of Major Edward U. Weldier camp of Chillicothe.

A very large number of recruits were mustered in, in fact, they represented every company in the regiment. The work was done in the usual manner by the team of Sam Williams camp, assisted by the visiting comrades.

Secretary of State Carmi Thompson arrived Monday morning.

Captain Thomas Binkley of New Lexington, clerk in the secretary of state's office, did not arrive until after dinner.

Among the pleasing faces seen early on the ground were J. S. Burton, second lieutenant of Co. M, of Dennison, and Hospital Steward C. C. Schamberg of Uhrichsville.

Sergeant M. G. Fearson of the regimental band of Ironton, O., was one among the first to arrive on the ground.

One of the features of the camp fire to be held tonight will be the sounding of all the trumpet calls by the Seventh Ohio's best trumpeter, Bernard Thompson.

REUNION

Of Various Regiments of Ohio Soldiers Are Now Being Held at Different Points.

The time of year has rolled around around when the veterans of the Civil war are wont to get together and talk over the stirring scenes of 40 years ago. The regimental reunions are anticipated, with great pleasure, not only by the members of the various regiments, but by civilians as well, for at the camp-fires are related stirring stories of adventure which never have and never will find their way into print, due entirely to the modesty of the participants. For the brave boys of the 60's we cannot do too much, for the most would indeed be small compensation for the danger they faced that we might have a free and undivided country. Among the regimental reunions to be held are the following:

The Thirty-first O. V. I. will meet in Memorial Hall, Columbus, Wednesday, September 4. Warner Mills, 230 Marshall avenue, Columbus, is the secretary.

On September 24 the 16th O. V. I. will meet in Orrville, when the old veterans will be given a good time.

On September 15, the Fifty-first and Eighty regiments O. V. I., will meet in Coshocton, when the veterans will be given a magnificent time.

On August 15th, the Ninety-eighth O. V. I., will meet in St. Clairsville, Belmont county.

The 126th regiment O. V. I. will meet in Canton when the keys of the

MRS. J. E. FISHER'S PARENTS DIED AT NEW STRATTSVILLE SUNDAY

Father Suddenly Stricken and Mother Soon Died of Shock--Two Brother's Died Almost Together Two Years Ago.

On Sunday the sad news was received here by friends and relatives of the sudden death of Mr. and Mrs. James Goodwin of New Straitsville, O. Mrs. James E. Fisher of 402 Eastern avenue, this city, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin, received word Sunday morning that her father had sustained a stroke of apoplexy and was very ill. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher left immediately for Straitsville, and the father passed away at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Goodwin, who suffered with heart trouble, could not survive the shock of her husband's death and she joined her lifemate in eternity early in the evening.

Mrs. Goodwin had never recovered from the death of her two sons, two years ago, which occurred within a short interval of three weeks. Her son, Michael Goodwin, was shot during the strike at the Wehrle foundry two years ago, by an unknown party. In the course of three weeks John Goodwin became ill at his home in New Straitsville, and died of appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin are survived by eight children, seven daughters and one son.

The funeral services will be conducted at New Straitsville on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and interment will be made at New Straitsville.

Mrs. Edward Stare, formerly of this city, is also a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin.

The case were continued until August 14.

According to information from Mt. Sterling the trouble lies in a factional dispute between the members of the congregation of the church over a will, by the terms of which certain moneys were left to the church. Harvey and the Van Allens are said to represent the two different factions of the church.

The members of the Holiness church formerly belonged to a Mt. Sterling church and a short time ago separated and formed a church of their own. The factional trouble, which had its culmination in the above cases in court, developed a short time ago.

The original chorus consisted of nearly seventy members and if all that had rehearsed the music for this competition had gone to Winona Lake, Newark would surely have gotten first money in one, if not both of the contests entered as the lack of singers was the only handicap that the chorus sustained.

The Choral society entered the choir and the chorus competition and of the former the Winona Assembly Review has the following to say: "The final event of the afternoon (Thursday) was the choir competition between Newark, Lima and Marion. The song selected was Guion's 'By Babylon's Wave,' a very difficult and high class composition, and with $300 prize as an incentive all three choruses sang so sweetly that the large audience was willing to give each in turn the money, but the adjudicators decided that Lima was the winner with Newark a close second, and Marion third. All the choruses joined in the final chorus, led by Prof. Flora, the Newark Chorus leader."

It will be seen that Prof. Flora and his singers were up against a very difficult proposition as both the Lima and Marion choruses are composed of a large number of professional singers and have been participating in these contests for a number of years and have won numerous prizes for their excellence.

The selection of Prof. Flora as the conductor of the combined chorus in the final chorus was a pretty compliment to his ability and also to the Newark Choral Society in their selection of such an able director.
